There is some excellent competition here to compete against on all levels in all events. This will be a great test for us with stellar competition. The level of competition will bring out the best in all of you no matter the weather. The weather is the same for everyone, but it doesn't affect everyone the same. Saturday may not be ideal for PR's but you can always give it your best and compete as hard as possible. I want you to go into this meet with great focus and to visualize beforehand how your event will proceed. Then, go out, put yourself in a good position, and let your body do what it does best. Don't hold anything back! ALL for ONE and ONE for ALL!
